A Grand Reunion

Of the Citizens of Eastern Michigan at the Fair Grounds, September 27, 28, 29 and 30.

It is hardly necessary, the experience of the past would indicate, to make any extended reference to the attractions of the annual Eastern Michigan Agricultural Society Fair. The principal attraction has been and will continue to be that everybody in this and adjoining counties invariably attends. "Fair time" in Ypsilanti is the occasion of a general reunion of all the residents of this region, and though the other attractions of the Fair are amply sufficient to induce the large attendance always received and will this year be greater than ever, the single fact that a great crowd will be here is an attraction that will not be resisted.

The managers of the Association are already busy in making arrangements to entertain and interest the great gathering of people they expect will patronize them this year and many new features will be presented.

As is announced elsewhere, a noon edition of THE YPSILANTIAN will be made each day of the Fair, in which will be published the premiums awarded on the previous day, mentions of matters of interest that occur on the grounds, a full report of the local news and a condensed report of the general news of the day.

It is safe to assume that the Fair of 1887 will be in all respects the "biggest and the best" ever held under the auspices of the Eastern Michigan Society. The schools will be dismissed, as usual, farm work will be suspended, the shops will be closed, and all intesests will for the time revolve around the Fair. This is as it should be, and it is as it will be.

School Election.
